

Micro-credential Programme Facilitators

Our facilitators know their material because they live it. Kaiako will be guided through the micro-credential courses by educational subject-matter experts with strong teaching backgrounds.

Micro-credentials: Secondary Education Career Pathway Qualification Programme

1. Contemporary secondary teaching approaches for Aotearoa New Zealand

Facilitator: Brooke Trenwith – potentialtoperformance.co.nz

Brooke, a regular presenter (and delegate favourite) at PPTA PCT conferences, is an experienced educator, with specialisations including giftedness, inclusive education (including Culturally and Linguistically Diverse students, autism and trauma informed practices), relationship-based learning/cultural responsiveness, coaching and change management, thinking skills, digital fluency, innovative learning and collaborative practice.

2. Effective mentoring practices for secondary teachers in Aotearoa

Facilitator: Pip Woodward

We're delighted to welcome Pip to our programme this year! Currently Deputy Principal at Tauranga's Ōtūmoetai College, she has previously worked as National Coordinator for the Ministry of Education-funded contract on "Whole School Approach to Wellbeing", implementing strategies for holistic student development. Pip's Masters of Educational Leadership thesis explored the intersections of complexity, adult developmental theory, leadership coaching, and leading change.

3. Working collaboratively and building leadership capability

Facilitators:

Our team has a breadth of educational expertise spanning school leadership, culturally empowering practice and theoretical knowledge.

Sofia Kaur

Sofia is a teacher and dean at Onehunga High School, Tāmaki Makaurau Auckland. She is passionate about exploring the responsibilities of tauiwi in the wider project of decolonising the secondary school space in Aotearoa.

Terry Kimiangatau

Terry is Deputy Principal at One Tree Hill College in Tāmaki Makaurau Auckland. A Masters of Secondary School Leadership developed Terry's theoretical knowledge, building this rangahau on his Te Ao Māori mātauranga.

Nathan Riki

A former teacher and university lecturer, Nathan is Kaiwhakahaere at Riki Consultancy. He actively advocates for the development and understanding of safe places for Māori and indigenous communities.
